END TO THIRD-TERM TALK: PRESIDENT M'KINLEY ONCE AND FOR

ALL SETTLES THE QUESTION. He Would Not Accept a Nomination if Tendered Decision Announced to the Cabinet Be fore It Was Made Public-Universal Approval of His Prompt and Dignified Course.

WASHINGTON, June 11 .- Praise of President McKinley's prompt and effective suppression of the third-term gossip is universal in Washington. His unequivocal statement caused surprise when made public to-day, but only because it came so

Since the day Senator Depew gave voice to the McKinley third-term idea the President has lost no opportunity in private conversation to let it be known that it met with his extreme disfavor. But he was inclined to believe that the gossip was not as widespread or as deep-rooted as his friends thought, and that it would soon die of its own lack of vitality.

When, however Representative Grosvenor of Ohio, popularly reported to be a confidential adviser and spokesman of the President, put him in the field as a candidiate for renomination Mr. McKinley at once realized that he was being placed in a false attitude before the public and he did not hesitate for a moment in taking heroic action to set himself right

His method of putting aside the crown was characteristic. Having made up his mind to take the public into his confidence, he sent for the members of the Cabinet. "his official family," and told them of his purpose, and in a way made them the indorsers of his statement to the public by inviting them to read it and withholding its promulgation until they should meet in regular Cabinet conference.

The personal and confidential consultation took place last night when the Cabinet members called at the White House in response to the President's telephone invitation. The formal proceedings were had at the Cabinet meeting to-day and before its adjournment the President's statement, dated yesterday, was issued as follows:

'I regret that the suggestion of a third term has been made. I doubt whether I am called upon to give it notice. But there are now questions of the gravest importance before the Administration and the country, and their just consideration should not be prejudiced in the public mind by even the suspicion of the thought of a third term In view, therefore, of the relteration of the suggestion of it, I will say now, once for all, expressing a long-settled conviction' that I not only am not and will not be a candidate for a third term, but would not accept a nomination for it if it were tendered me.

"My only ambition is to serve through my second term to the acceptance of my countrymen, whose generous confidence I so deeply appreciate, and then with them do my duty in the ranks of private citizen-WILLIAM MCKINLEY. "EXECUTIVE MANSION, Washington, June 10, 1901. Apparently, there is not one dissenting voice in the general chorus of commendation. So far as public opinion can be judged by the sentiment in Washington, approval of the President's course is unanimous. Even the anti-imperialists can find no fault, and this is proof positive of the President's wisdom, for theirs are the guns that have been spiked. Having failed utterly and absolutely to find in the public acts of the Administration a nerable point to attack with any hope of popular success, they were about to eagerly seize the opportunity afforded by the third-term idea as suggested by Depew and elaborated by Grosvenor when their man of straw was torn to pieces by the Presi-dent himself with promptness, candor and dignity.

No one doubts that McKinley means exactly what he says; and so far as Washington officials and politicians are concerned, there will be no further talk of his renomination. Other candidates will now come to the front and the Fairbanks boom, the Hanna boom and all the other incipient booms will have a chance to inflate. But, as Senator Hanna said to-day in Cleveland: "It is too early and too hot to talk about possible Presidential candi-

The sentiment of the Cabinet is well expressed by the views of Secretary Long, who said: I think the President by this act has given another evidence of his wisdom and patriotism. I am satisfied that dem and patriotism. I am satisfied that personally he did not desire, nor would have been willing, to accept a third term. After eight years of the burdens and responsibilities of office he looks forward to the relief of private life. As a matter of principle and conviction, also, he would not accept a third term, and has evidently felt it his duty to confirm the traditions. felt it his duty to confirm the traditions of his country in this respect. This action of his, I believe, will do more than anything else can do to settle this question for all time. The whole thing is another evi-dence of the President's right-mindedness, disinterestedness and entire conse-cration to the best interests of his country and to the obligations of his great trust."

Attorney - General Knox said: "The President's concise and unequivocal announcement will delight but not surprise his countrymen. The high and patriotic grounds upon which it is founded, its timely expression and the circumstance than expression and the circumstance that he is at the zenith of a deserved personal popularity that never came to a President of the United States during his incumbency of office, marks it as one of his greatest services to the people. The bogie of third term need frighten no more. It is not too much to say that President McKinley has banshed it for all time. His words are d and compact that nothing can be read Postmaster-General Smith referred to it as an act of self-abnegation growing out of n deep sense of public duty. He thinks that the President felt impelled to speak would be free and untrammelled the consideration of public questions.

Secretary Hirebook said: "It is a noble attement, saturated with true patriotism on beginning to end. It will be forever storic and is just what might have been expected from such a loval lover of his country and his countrymen."

BRYAN'S IDEA OF THIRD TERM. Says It Is in Perfect Harmony With the Colonial fdea.

did not care to-hight to discuss decetly the personal statement of President McKinley decilains a third term nomination. His paper, the Commoner, however, this week will comment on the third term idea in part

"A third term is a small innovation compared with the changes which have already been adverted, but it is in perfect harmony with the colour, I dien. In the last campaign the Republicans claimed that the Filipmos were encouraged by the prospects of a change in admaistration. The same argument can be made at any time when a state of war exists anywhere in the empire, and a state of war generally does exist somewhere in an $850.00 Children by the Chicago and North-Western Railway on account of the Enworth League Convention in July. empire. Imperialism would not be tolerated but for the spirit of commercialism which is abroad in the land, and commercialism equally with imperialism protests against frequent elections. When you admit the principle of imperialism those who are placed in charge of the Government will be able to enlarge upon the principle until all of the truths once supposed to be self-evident are denied and dethroned."

BRYAN SUGGESTS JUSTICE HARIAN. Good Presidential Candidates for the Reorganizationists of the Democratic Party.

LINCOLN, Neb., June 11 .- In this week's Commoner Mr. Bryan brings forward Justice Harlan as a proper candidate for the reorganizationists in the Democratic party. Under the caption, "Why Not Harlan?" he

"The Gold Democrats seem anxious to find a Presidential candidate who is not 'Tainted with the silver heresy,' and insist that that was their main objection to the tickets nominated in 1896 and in 1900. Why do they not urge the nomination of Justice Harlan? Of course, Mr. Harlan is not a Democrat, but that objection ought not to weigh with the Gold Democrats who voted for Mr. McKinley. Mr. Harlan has not only placed himself on record against imperialism, but he also wrote a dissenting opinion in the income tax case and opposed the position taken by the Supreme Court in the Sugar Trust case. He has a splendid record on three prominent questions, but this is the very reason why the Gold Democrats would object to him. They prefer a Democrat who indorses Republican policies to a Republican who supports Democratic policies.

PINT OF ACID IN HIS FACE. Thrown at Hawkins by the Girl He'd Tired of and Jilted.

Mamie Collins had been scorned, so yester day she threw acid on the scorner. "All the other girls do that newadays. Why shouldn't I?" Marsie asked herself and then told herself that it was the proper thing to do. As she had been scorned for six long weeks, she didn't think that a little drug store bottle of stuff would do, so she got a pint pitcher and had it filled with sulphuric acid. Then, with her pitcher under a paper wrapping, she came over to Manhatton from her home at 9 State street, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon and lay in wait for Patrick Haw kins, the man who had jilted her. Hawkins lives in Brooklyn and works in Hoboken. Before she was put aside six weeks ago Mamie went every afternoon to meet Patrick and go home from work with him, so she knew his route. It was across the Hoboken ferry to Fourteenth street and from Fourteenth street downtown on the Ninth avenue elevated.

Mamie with her pitcher waited for him yes Mamie with her pitcher waited for him yesterday on the stairs leading up to the Fourteenth street leavated station—the same same stairs they had so often elimbed together before Patrick changed his mind. He came along just after 6 o'clock and was going up the stairs on the jump to catch an approaching train when Mamie faced him and threw the acid full in his face. Most of the pint went on Hawkins. Some fell on Mamie's black skirt and turned it red in spots and the rest went over the stair railing and sprinkled the fruit on an Italian's stand on the sidewalk.

and the rest went over the stair railing and sprinkled the fruit on an Italian's stand on the sidewalk.

Hawkins groped his way down the stairs, screaming with pain. The fruit pedler helped him across the street to a drug store, while several men who had seen the acid throwing from the street tried to catch the woman. She might have got away by running up stairs and getting aboard the train.

But she ran down instead, and to clude the men who were waiting for her at the bottom of the stairs she climbed over, the rail quarter of the way up, dropped to the payement and ran down Ninth avenue, after throwing the empty pitcher at her pursuers. She was caught at Twelfth street by John Fitzgibbons, who turned her over to Policeman Meyers. She was locked up for the night in the Charles street police station. At the station she said that she loved Hawkins dearly and wanted to marry him, but that he had not been to see her for six weeks and wouldn't keep the engagement. Then she cried.

Hawkins was sent from the drug store to the New York Eye and Ear Infirmary in Second avenue. His burns are serious, but it was said at the infirmary last night that he would probably not lose the use of either eye. He admitted that he had been engaged to the Collins girl and said he had got tired of her.

Hawkins has been the support of his aged parents for some time. They live at 327 Henry street. His mother, who has abhorred Mamie Collins, rejoiced when Patrick transferred his attentions to a Hoboken damsel.

ALDERMAN TO THE COURT OF VIENNA.

Sympathy to Francis Joseph. When the Empress Josephine was assassinated nearly two years ago the Municipal Assembly adopted resolutions of condolence and had them entered on the minutes. The office of the clerk of the city was as near as the resolutions ever got to the Emperor Francis Joseph, but by the action of the board yesterday this will be remedied. Alderman Jacob Neufeld, who is an Austrian by birth, is going to visit his home this summer, and at the meetngs yesterday of the two bodies making up the Municipal Assembly the Alderman was commissioned to bear an engrossed set of the resolutions to the Emperor. The Alderman s to pay all the expenses of the trip himself. Alderman Neufeld represents the gas house district and his district leader is City Chamberlain Pat Keenan. He has served two terms on the board and is one of lits least Alderman Neufeld said yesterday that one of the first things that he would do would be to go down to Washington and get letters to the United States Minister, so that he would be able to identify himself when he came to seek an audience with the Emperor.

"I'll sail on the 27th," he said, "and I'll have no difficulty in gettin' there. I'll ask the Mayor for permission to go, for I am an Alderman and I ought to have that. Then I'll get a letter from the Secretary of the United States and letters from a lot of other people, and the Emperor will be glad to see me, anyhow." Diplomats are said to be very Jealous of their rights when it comes to having some one else appear in an official capacity in the courts to which they are accredited, and the spectacle of the Alderman announcing himself as the ropresentative of the city of New york at an Austrian court will present many interesting Alderman Neufeld said yesterday that one presentative of the city of New York at an strian court will present many interesting tures. FIGHT ON FOR THE "FIGARO"

TWO RIVAL STAFFS NOW IN THE PARIS NEWSPAPER OFFICE.

This Morning's Edition Issued by the Old Staff Under a Truce-Case to Go Into Court Today -Betting in the Cafes on the Result -Old Manager and Editor Refuse to Outt.

Specia Cable Despatch to THE SUN Paris, June 11 .- The Figaro crisis has undergone a new development. Another meeting of the shareholders was held this afternoon, which was presided over by M. Prestat, who is the leader of the opposition to MM. Perivier and De Rodays. The 200 shareholders who attended represented less than half the shares, but it was decided that they formed a quorum and they acted accordingly.

After a somewhat lengthy proceeding motion was carried summarily dismissing MM. Perivier and De Rodays. There were only two dissentients. M. Prestat was appointed temporary manager. He thereupon announced his determination to go to the Figaro office and take possession, and, accompanied by many directors and shareholders, whose numerous carriages blocked traffic, he arrived and demanded admission.

M. Perivier, from behind the closed door, said that he was in his own house and would not be dispossessed. After some parleying and threats to burst the door in an employee on the inside opened the door a little, whereupon M. Prestat and his party pushed in. The door was then closed. Meanwhile a great crowd assembled in the street, and extra police were called out to preserve order.

There are different versions of just what happened within the office, but it seems that the invaders spread all over the house and to their surprise found that M. De Rodays, who was ejected the other day by M. Perivier, was now acting as manager of the advertising department, which, it is said, M. Perivier subsequently offered to consolidate with his own office.

According to Henri de Houx three attempts were made to hustle M. Perivier out. but all failed. M. Perivier refused to ercognize the validity of the meeting and protested against what he called a violation at domictle, while M. Marinoni, the printer, refused to accept instructions from M. Prestat.

The dinner hour arrived. The two parties were occupying separate floors, and all were afraid to leave lest they would be unable to reenter. Accordingly meals were ordered from restaurants and passed through the bars of the gate, which was kept locked.

At a late hour it was impossible to ascertain what would happen. There were two complete staffs in the building, and the frequenters of the cafés on the boulevards were merrily betting whether there would be a fight during the night, whether the Figaro in the morning would be Perivierist or Prestatist, and whether there would be editions issued by each or no issue at all.

Paris, June 12, 1 A. M. Shortly before midnight a justice of the peace and a police commissary, acting under an order granted by an urgency court on M. Prestat's apdication, arrived at the office and sealde up the safe, books, &c., pending a deicsion of the court to-day. It is understood that the rivals have now agreed in the common interest that to-day's issue shall be published by M. Perivier, to whom nearly the entire staff provisionally adheres. The paper will contain M. Perivier's formal protest against the invasion.

PARIS, June 12, 5 A. M.—The Figaro was issued in accordance with the arrangement.

Murray Hill Quarrelsome Family Seek a Police Station Solution of Their Woes.

Two men and a woman accompanied by policeman went to the West Thirtieth street police station last night to have a family row adjusted. One of the men was the woman's husband. The other was her brother. The policeman said that he had found them quarrelling in front of the Murray Hill Hotel.

"Sergeant," began the woman. "I have been abused and insulted by my husband at our hotel and I want you to protect me." This is a family affair, sergeant, "interrupted the husband, "and I assure you that the woman will not be bothered again tonight and after to-right she can have our apartments to herself and I will take others." The brother, who introduced himself to the ergeant as John Bockas of 87 West 110th street, said that his sister had sent for him and that when he got to her hotel he was insulted by her husband. The sergeant offered to lock the husband up for the night if the woman would make a complaint against him and promise to be in court this morning. She would not do that, and as the sergeant had nothing else to suggest all hands went away—the woman with her brother in a cab, and the husband alone.

PENNSYLVANIA R. R. IN STEEL.

Buys a Big Company to Make Its Own Ratis

PHILADELPHIA, June 11 .- John P. Green, First Vice-President of the Pennsylvania Railroad, to-night admitted that his company was practically in control of the Pennsylvania Steel Company He decined to go into details, but from what he said it seems that the railroad officials feared that there would be an attempt on the part of the United States Steel Corporation to "squeeze" them on the price of steel rails, and in order to relieve themselves of this possibility the Pennsylvania Railroad Company secured a plant which would permit them to manufacture their own rails if they so desired. The statement that the International Navigation Company and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company proposed to build ships and to enter jointly into an extensive shipping business, was emphatically denied by the same official. There is also reason to believe that the Pennsylvania Railroad has secured a large block of the stock of the Bethlehem Steel Company.

It is known that four directors of the steel company have sold their holdings upon certain terms and conditions to a single purchaser and that the other directors will have similar opportunities to dispose of their stock President Linderman of the Bethlehem Steel Company, will issue a statement in a few days making full explanation. Announcement was made unofficially today, but on most reliable authority that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company had noquired all the property and appurtenances the Berwind White Coal Company. This is the largest real estate transaction in the history of Pennsylvania. The company has thousands of acres of coal lands in eight counties of this State principally Green, Westmoreland and Armstrong. The financial outlay approximates $33,000,000. It is understood that the company is to allow the present name to stand for two years.

Boston, June 11 .- From early this mornng until after 1 o'clock this afternoon the Malden police dragged Felsmere Park pond, trying to raise the body of Sadie Biddle, who they felt sure was drowned there with her sister Lillian, whose body was found yesterday. Just as they decided to stop word was brought that the missing Sadie had beet found in Jamaica Plain, where she was alive and well. She was working as a servant for a family who hired her in an employment

A friend who knew the Biddles heard that Sadie was in Jamaica Plain and told the Malden police. It was learned that Sadie admits that Lillian told her she would kill herself. Inspector Greenleaf, who has had charge of the case, went to Jamaica Plain to see Sadie. In his investigations Greenleaf found that a girl answering the description of Sadie stopped at a house on Dorchester avenue, South Boston on Friday night, and left in the morning without leaving word with the proprietor as to where she was going. A letter found in her room and addressed to Miss Katie Sullivan, Charles Street place, Malden, said: "When you get this letter I will be in a watery grave."

FIGHT WITH NAVAJO INDIANS.

and Outbreak May Follow. PHENIX, Ariz., June 11 -Telegraphic adices from Holbrook, in the northern part of Arizona and near the Navajo Indian Reservation, state that a bloody conflict occurred there on Sunday between a band of redskins and a posse of cowboys organized to suppress cattle stealing by the Indians. The details are meagre, and it is not known whether the whites suffered a loss. It is reported that three redskins were killed and that a num-per were wounded on each side, The battle took place in a lonely canon of the San Francisco Mountains shortly before sundown. The Indians had rounded up a number of range cattle bearing the brands of members of the posse and were making camp for the night, preparatory to driving he cattle into their reservation on the folowing day.

The whites met a hail of bullets from an The whites met a hail of bullets from an ambush as they descended a trail of the canon, but found cover readily. Fighting in Indian fashion continued until dark, when the reds escaped, leaving the cattle. There is reason to believe that among the dead Indians is one of the most noted medicine men of the tribe, in which case further bloodshed may ensue. Reports from other sources say that the Indians on the reservation have learned of the conflict and are growing restless. The Navajos have not yet forgotten the apparently unjust killing of five of their tribe two years ago by a similar posse, and it is feared that they will rise to avenge both fancied wrongs at the expense of the lives of the innocent settlers in the region.

Gives Up His Share of the Spotls - Spellman a New Yorker and Former Major of the Sixty-ninth - Conviction Expected - $500,000 Worth of Hemp Sent Out in Past Six Months.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. MANILA, June 11.-There was a sensation yesterday in the court-martial of Capt. Michael Spellman, Lieut. Delbert R. Jones and Surgeon Dudley Welch of the Fortythird Volunteer Infantry, in southern Leyte, on charges of trading in permits to ship hemp from closed ports. Surgeon Dudley Welch turned State's evidence and gave testimony incriminating Capt. Spellman and Lieut. Jones, who will probably receive terms of imprisonment. Welch, who appears to have been a tool of the others, has returned $1,000, his share of the spoils, to the lovernment.

The evidence disclosed that the value of the hemp cleared from Maasin was about $500,000 in the last six months. The officers indicted levied half a peso on each picul of rice entering insurgent territory, while steamers, schooners and bancas trading with closed ports in Malithog Bay paid from 30 o 500 pesos, according to their tonnage. The Presidente of Maasin, and a go-bet-

POOLROOM MEN REJOICING. Fear of the Pifteen Gone, They'll All Open

To-day -Gamblers Don't Care. The Committee of Fifteen's going out of the raiding business will have no immediate effect on regular gambling houses because the proprietors of the big and prosperous places have already shut down for the summer, not because of the recent raids, they say, but in accordance with their regular custom, and because the proprietors of the humbler joints patronized by the small-fry gamblers are all broke and don't expect to have enough money to resume business before fall. They went broke during the troublous times brought to an end by the Fifteen's latest announcement But by the poolroom proprietors and their employees that announcement has been hailed with joy. It was the talk of all the rooms will be open for business again within a day or two, and the two or three thousand men employed as sheet writers, announcers, lookouts and general hangers-on, who have been out of work because of the Fifteen's activity, will get back their five and ten-dollar-

Convention of the National Metal Trades Assoclation in Session Here Issues an Unequivocal Statement - Puts All Blame on Strikers.

-The Strike Embarrasses Government Work.

Any hones the striking machinists might have had of compelling recognition of their union were dispelled yesterday by the action of the National Metal Trades Association, whose members began consideration of the strike at the Gilsey House yesterday forenoon, About 150 members attended the conference and there were also present more than 100 non-association manufacturers, forty-one of whom joined the association during the day, the rest promising to take the matter of becoming members into consideration. Edwin Reynolds of Milwaukee, President of the Association, acted as chairman. A statement defining the position of the association in the strike was adopted unanimously. After declaring that the strike was ordered while a contract between the machinists and the association was in force, the statement continues:

"Within one year, at the first test to which this contract was subjected, James O'Connell, President of the International Association of Machinists, without aftempt to arbitrate, officially called a strike against shops of our members which did not accede to certain arbitrary demands by a specific date. We declare that we urged President O'Connell to arbitrate any and all matters of dispute, and reiterated our willingness to abide by arbitration, and used our best efforts to avoid a strike. We deplore the fact that the general officers of the Internatoinal Association of Machinists have seen fit to violate their con-Machinists have seen it to violate their contract and throw dishonor on the association for which they stand and so make it impossible for our association to piace any faith in the responsibility of the Machinists' Union has through its national and local officers broken faith with us and proven themselves to be an irresponsible body, with whom we can make no contracts that will be bind ag upon them. We recognize the right of a whan to belong or not to any religious, political or economic sect as he may see fit: also his right to leave our employment at his free will and his right to sell his labor at the best price he can command. We maintain our inalienable rights to employ a man whether he belongs or not to any organization and at wages mutually satisfactory, and also to discharge him at our discretion.

"We insist that the management of a shop is in the hands of the employer and is not to be interfered with by the employee. We insist that a fair day's work shall be given for a fair day's wage for a fair day's work. We believe that a shortening of the working hours or an increase of wages can only be brought about by the hearty cooperation of employer and employee in advancing and not in retarding production and by introducing and not fighting improved methods. We deery strikes and lockouts as unbusinessike and unnecessary and believe that all disagreements can be adjusted by other means, and the condition of employer and employees than by strife and discord."

The delegates pledged themselves to support the declaration of principles adopted at the conference of the association in Chicago on May 28 and 29, at which it was decided to cut loose from the union. Various committees were appointed, including a Committee on Finance and Strike, of which John W. Young is chairman. W. J. Chalmers, who acted as the representative of the convention, was asked afterward what the functions of this committee would be. He said that they were not defined yet. Asked if the committee was appointed to arbitrate the strike he sa tract and throw dishonor on the association for which they stand and so make it impos-

our employees."

M. B. Ford, the delegate of the machinists, who was said to have come all the way from Toronto to attend the convention at the Gilsey House, did not put in an appearance yesterday. The convention adjourned to yesterday. The convention adjourned to yesterday. The convention adjourned to 10 A M. to-day, when the President's report will be read and the various committees instructed as to their duties. Some of the delegates sala that the strikers were returning to gates said that the strikers were returning to work in great numbers all over the country. After the night session Secretary Devens said:

"At no time in the history of the National Metal Trades Association has therepresentation by delegates covered such an extensive territory as in the meeting held to-day. The most important matter brought up was the adoption of a measure for the immediate raising of a fund so that the present treasury fund of the association might be increased to $500,000. The raising of this amount of money for the protection of industries of the United States and Canada is not a difficult measure and there was no opposition to the placing of the necessary assessment."
